WELCOME TO FENWAY PARK

Jean R. Yawkey

Haywood C. Sullivan

Edward G. LeRoux, Jr.

We hope you have an enjoyable visit to Fenway Park. Since 1912 it has been one of baseball's great landmarks and has developed a rich tradition.

Our refurbishing projects are continuing. Hopefully you will not be inconvenienced while we strive to add further improvements to our ballpark.

Among current improvements are expanded facilities for wheelchair fans and new lighting for the playing field. Concession stands and rest rooms have also undergone overhauling.

Although there have been cosmetic changes at Fenway Park, the playing field is virtually the same today as it was over 40 years ago. The famous "Green Monster" wall, the intriguing angles and corners around the outfield and the closeness of the crowd to the action are reasons why it is such a captivating place to watch baseball.

The Boston entry in the American League's inception in 1901 was known as the Pilgrims and played its games at the Huntington Avenue grounds where Northeastern U. now stands. In 1907 the Red Sox nickname was adopted and in 1912 Fenway Park opened for the first time.

The late Tom Yawkey put Fenway through a reconstruction phase during his first year of ownership in 1934 and then put the bullpens in right field after the 1939 season. Prior to the 1976 season a new left field wall was built, the centerfield message board was installed and padding was added to the outfield walls as a safety measure for outfielders.

For 83 years Boston has been one of the cornerstone franchises of the American League. Many great players have performed here and some of baseball's most dramatic moments were seen here.

During the last 16 years over 28 million fans have attended games in Fenway Park. Over that span the Red Sox have been the only major league team to have a winning record every single season.

The 1982 edition, capably managed by Ralph Houk, was in either first or second place from April 23 through September 3 and remained in the Eastern Division race until the last week of September.

The diagram on page 16A shows the location of all Fenway Park facilities and the maps on page 50 show the various methods and routes leading here. We urge you to use the public transportation facilities as often as possible to come to the ballpark.

Above all, the Red Sox management thanks Red Sox fans throughout New England for their tremendous support over the years.

THE MANAGER

RALPH GEORGE (RALPH) HOUK #35

Age: 63. Turns 64 Aug. 9; Born: August 9, 1919, Lawrence, Kan. Ht.: 5-11. Wt.: 190 lbs. Blue eyes. Brown hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Pompano Beach, Fla. Married Bette Porter. Children: Donna 11/22/41, Richard 2/28/43, Robert 8/24/49.

The Red Sox remained in the 1982 Eastern Div. race until the last week and finished third with an 89-73 record. Houk's successful handling of the bullpen was a prime reason the team was first or second Apr. 23 thru Sept. 3.

The club responded to Houk's never-say-die attitude and came from behind to win 45 games, including 14 from the 7th inning on. In Dec. 1981 the Red Sox extended Houk's contract through 1984 at a substantial increase in salary.

On Oct. 27, 1980 Houk was named the 35th manager of the Red Sox, ending a two-year retirement. Ralph previously managed 16 years in the A.L. with the Yankees and Tigers. In addition to being a winning manager (1455-1371 .515) he is also credited with the ability to develop young players. Houk succeeded Casey Stengel as Yankee manager in 1961 and directed N.Y. to three straight pennants and two World Championships (1961-62). Those feats resulted in such honors as Major League Manager of the Year by The Sporting News in 1961 and managing the A.L. All Star team in 1962-63. He spent two years as Yankee Vice-Pres. and Gen. Manager before moving back as manager May 7, 1966 replacing Johnny Keane. He was named A.L. Manager of the Year in 1970.

Ralph left N.Y. after 1973 to become manager of the Tigers for the next five years. He announced his retirement after guiding the young Tigers to an 86-76 record in 1978 and spent the next two years in Pompano Beach. Houk is first in point of service as a manager in the major leagues.

Houk played in the Yankee organization as a catcher, 1939-54, with four years (1942-45) out for military duty with the Rangers of the 9th Armored Div. in Europe in WW II. He rose from private to major, saw action at Bastogne and The Bulge and was awarded the Silver Star, Purple Heart and Bronze Star.

THE COACHES

JOHN MICHAEL (JOHNNY) PESKY #6

Age: 63. Turns 64 Sept. 27; Born: September 27, 1919, Portland, Ore. Ht.: 5-9. Wt.: 170 lbs. Brown eyes. Brown hair. Bats: Left; Throws: Right. Home: Swampscott, Mass. Married Ruth Hickey. Children: David 12/19/52.

Johnny has been associated with the Red Sox for close to 40 years in almost every phase of the game, as a player, coach, manager, radio-TV announcer and advertising salesman. He's still one of the most popular members of the Red Sox and makes many off-season appearances on the banquet circuit. In Jan. 1982 the Boston Baseball Writers honored him with their "Good Guy" award. He was the first base coach for five years and then moved to a dugout role assisting the manager in 1980 while continuing to be the team's hitting instructor.

Johnny was an outstanding shortstop, third baseman and all-around hitter. He holds the Red Sox records for most hits by a rookie (205) and most singles in a season (172) and hit over .300 six times in his major league career. He was the first Red Sox player to have three 200-hit years (Jim Rice is the 2nd). After 10 years with Boston, Detroit and Washington, Pesky coached under Ralph Houk in Denver in 1955 and managed in the Detroit farm system from 1956 through 1960. In the mid-1960's he was a coach for the Pirates and a manager in their system before joining the Red Sox broadcast crew in 1969. He spent six years as part of the radio and television team. He also managed Seattle for the Red Sox in 1961-62 before moving up to the parent Boston team in 1963-64. He's tied for the M.L. record in leading a league in hits 3 straight years.

It's a Hit!

Hood

WALTER JOHN (WALT) HRINIAK #33

Age: 39, Turns 40 May 22; Born: May 22, 1943, Natick, Mass. Ht.: 5-11; Wt.: 178 lbs. Green eyes, Blond hair. Bats: Left, Throws: Right. Home: Natick, Mass.

This is Hriniak's seventh year with the Red Sox. In addition to his bullpen coaching duties he works on hitting techniques with several of the Sox and has won acclaim for his methods. He's recognized as one of the best batting practice pitchers in the game and is a keen student of overall strategy.

Before joining the Red Sox in 1977 Hriniak put in 16 years as a player, coach and minor league manager. He managed Montreal's rookie team at Lethbridge, Alb., Can. in the Pioneer League in 1976 after starting the year as a coach with Denver. In 1974-75 he was first base coach with the Expos, following two years as manager of their Jamestown team in the NYP League.

Hriniak signed a reported $50,000 contract with the Milwaukee Braves in 1961 after an outstanding career at Natick, Mass. H.S. He was an All Scholastic choice as a shortstop, football quarterback and hockey center. His 13-year pro playing career included two years with the Braves and Padres as a catcher in 1968-69.

EDWARD FRED JOSEPH (EDDIE) YOST #36

Age: 56; Born: October 13, 1926, Brooklyn, N.Y. Ht.: 5-10; Wt.: 180 lbs. Blue eyes, Brown hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Wellesley, Mass. Married Pat Healy. Children: Felita 1/13/62, Michael 11/12/63, Alexis 5/3/65.

Eddie is regarded as one of the best third base coaches in baseball. Quick thinking and thorough knowledge of the opposition's strengths and weaknesses are necessary ingredients for a successful third base coach, and Yost has always demonstrated those attributes. Eddie is in his seventh year at that spot for the Red Sox after doing likewise for the Mets, 1968-76 and Washington Senators, 1963-67. He was with the Mets in the 1969 and 1973 World Series.

"The Walking Man," as he was known during his 17-year major league career, was an outstanding third baseman and leadoff hitter. Came from the campus of New York U. to the Senators in 1944. Led the A.L. 6 times in BB, had over 100 BB 8 times, scored over 100 runs 5 times and twice led the A.L. in fielding. Still holds the A.L. record of 28 HR as leadoff batter.

He was traded from Washington to Detroit in Dec. of 1958 and was selected by the Angels in baseball's first expansion draft, Dec. 14, 1960. When Yost retired after the 1962 season he held the major league record for most games at third base (2,008) and the A.L. marks for putouts (2,356), assists (3,659) and chances (6,015). He was selected for the A.L. All Star team in 1952 but did not play. He has a Master's Degree in Physical Education from N.Y.U. and is a member of their Hall of Fame. On Nov. 1, 1981 he was inducted into the Washington, D.C. Hall of Stars and his portrait was hung in D.C. Stadium.

ALBERT LEE (LEE, STINGER) STANGE #34

Age: 46; Born: October 27, 1936, Chicago, Ill. Ht.: 5-10; Wt.: 170 lbs. Blue eyes, Brown hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Fountain Valley, Calif. Married June. Children: Tim 9/3/64, Jim 3/21/67, Jana 5/15/68, Jennifer 9/25/66, Christopher 11/1/67.

Stange was named pitching coach in Nov. 1980 after a six-year absence from the Red Sox major league staff. He rejoined the Sox in 1980 as a minor league pitching instructor on the Triple A and Double A levels and served as a West Coast scout.

"Stinger" ended a 10-year major league career in 1970 and was the Red Sox minor league pitching coach in 1971 before moving up to the club's major league staff in 1972-74. He held the same position with the Twins in 1975 and then joined the Oakland organization in 1976 as a minor league instructor. He was the A's pitching coach 1977-79.

Stange had a 62-61 major league record with the Twins, Indians, Red Sox and White Sox. He came to Boston 6/2/66 from the Indians with pitcher Don McMahon for Dick Radatz. He was 8-10 with a 2.77 ERA (best on the team) during the 1967 pennant-winning season and the Sox best reliever in 1968 with 5 wins and 11 saves in 50 games. On 6/29/70 he was sold to the White Sox. "Stinger" was All State in baseball and All Chicago in basketball at Proviso Township H.S. He was also a football QB and teammate of ex-NFL star Ray Nitschke, and went to Drake U. on a football scholarship. On 9/2/64 he tied the M.L. record of 4 strikeouts in one inning for Clev.

TOMMY (TOMMY) HARPER #32

Age: 42; Born: October 14, 1940, Oak-Grove, La. Ht.: 5-9; Wt.: 160 lbs. Brown eyes, Black hair. Bats and Throws: Right. Home: Stoughton, Mass. Married Bonnie Jean Williams.

Harper is in his fourth year as the club's first base coach and base-running instructor. He spent the 1979 season in the Red Sox public relations office before joining the coaching staff. Tommy had a 15-year major league career with Cincinnati, Cleveland, the Seattle Pilots, Milwaukee, the Red Sox, California, Oakland and Baltimore and then was a scout and minor league coach for the Yankees.

He started his career with the Reds at the end of the 1962 season and finished with the Orioles in 1976. In 1810 games Harper hit .257 with 146 home runs and 408 stolen bases. In 1970 he hit 31 home runs and stole 38 bases for Milwaukee, a feat accomplished by Bobby Bonds, Willie Mays, Henry Aaron and Ken Williams. He hit 6 homers that year as leadoff batter, to tie for the A.L. record with Eddie Joost (1948), Eddie Yost (1959), Bert Campaneris (1970) and Brian Downing (1982). In 1965 he led the N.L. in runs (126) for the Reds and in 1969 he led the A.L. with 73 stolen bases for the Pilots. He played for the Red Sox in 1972-74 and was the team's MVP in 1973 when he led the A.L. with a club-record 54 SB's, scored 92 runs and hit 17 homers.

Harper starred in three sports at Encinal H.S. and Santa Rosa College and hit .507 at San Francisco State before signing with the Reds. He was the MVP of the Three-I League in 1961 and played 1B-2B-3B-OF in the majors.

In 1982 the RED SOX spelled relief M-A-R-K C-L-E-A-R

BUY A COMPUTER BY THE NUMBERS

Introducing the Cromemco C-10 Personal Computer. Only $1785.00, including software, and you get more professional features and performance for the price than with any other personal computer on the market. We've got the numbers to prove it. The C-10 starts with a high-resolution 12" CRT. A high-speed Z-80A microprocessor and 64K bytes of on-board memory. Then there's a detached, easy-to-use keyboard and a 5 1/4" disk drive with an exceptionally large 390K capacity. But hardware can't work alone. That's why every C-10 includes software — word processing, financial spread sheet, investment planning and BASIC. Hard-working, CP/M® based software that meets your everyday needs. Software that could cost over $1000.00 somewhere else. FREE with the C-10. There's really nothing else to buy. Plus over 10,000 CPM-compatible software programs of varied applications including accounting, statistics, engineering, etc.

NICKNAMES

A vanishing part of the game

by Stan Grosshandler

Several years ago comedian Phil Foster had a routine asking, "What's become of those good old nicknames? Where are the names like Bronko? Bulldog? Ox? With names like that, you got to be an athlete!"

Yes, Phil was right, few colorful nicknames exist today, few that identify the man as Babe, Dizzy, Dazzy, Yogi, Stan the Man, the Splendid Splinter or Yankee Clipper. Writing in the 1982 edition of "Baseball Research Journal" published by the Society for American Baseball Research, James K. Skipper, Jr. points out that nicknames reached their peak between 1910 and 1920 and each succeeding decade have declined.

There are no doubt several reasons for this decline. Better education of the players and the higher degree of sophistication of society in general would account for some. Another reason nicknames have disappeared is that they were often derogatory or made jest of the individuals' personal appearance, something no longer tolerated.

If you were of Germanic background you were Dutch, Hans or Heinie. There were many Frenchy's (Frenchy Bordagaray rocked the baseball world when he appeared in spring training with a mustache), Swedes, and Greek. If you happened to look Oriental you were "Jap" or, if, in someone's mind you looked Irish, you were "Mick". The great Yankee second baseman Tony Lazzeri was called "Poosh em up" because his large Italian following would chant that hoping for a home run.

Glasses were only worn by "sissys" so anyone who dared to wear them on the field was Specs. The first infielder to wear glasses Specs Toporcer, a fine fielder (now 84 years old,) became a well known executive of the sport. He later

JIM RICE...

A COMPLETE PLAYER

by Joe Giuliotti

He's the most devastating right-handed power hit to ever wear a Red Sox uniform.

Yet, Jim Rice, for some reason, really hasn't had the national attention he deserves.

In a ballpark built for righthanded power, Rice, after only eight plus years, is the all-time leader in home runs by a righthander, with 237 starting the season. Only Ted Williams (521) and Carl Yastrzemski (442 prior to 1983) have hit more for the Red Sox.

Rice started 1983 second among righthanders in RBI. He began with 828 and, should he remain in a Red Sox uniform, will easily pass Bobby Doerr, who drove across 1247 in his 13 years in Boston. With 1429 base hits he should move up the ladder past Doerr (2042) and lead all Red Sox righthanders in that category.

Watching Rice perform, one would never think he once doubted his talents as a baseball player. As a young teenager he sat and cried after his team lost a game. He felt he had been responsible for the defeat and didn't want to play anymore.

But it was all forgotten the next day and Rice's career really began. He tore up every league he played in as a youngster, hit 450 foot home runs in high school and American Legion ball and wound up the Red Sox number one choice in the 1971 June draft.

JIM RICE..

He quickly climbed the ladder. His first year at Williamsport he hit only .256 with five homers and 27 RBI in 60 games.

But, with that year of professional ball under his belt, "the sweet swinger from Anderson South Carolina," as former Red Sox radio broadcaster Jim Woods referred to him, started his assault on minor league pitching.

In 1972 he hit .291 at Winter Haven, leading the league in at bats, hits and runs scored while driving 17 homers and knocking in 87 runs.

Next, it was on to Bristol and Double A ball. There, he led the league in hitting with a .317 mark, hit 27 homers and drove in 93 before being moved up to the Triple A club at Pawtucket for their final 10 games of the season.

1974 saw him terrorize the International League and walk away with the Most Valuable Player award and Rookie of the Year trophy, as well as being named International League Player of the Year. His credentials included a triple crown leading the league with a .337 average, 25 homers and 93 RBI.

In Aug. of 1974 he reached his final stop — the big leagues, hitting his first home run and driving in 13 in the 24 games he appeared.

There have been many minor league phenoms who couldn't hack it in the big leagues. Rice is not one of them. His lifetime average coming into 1983 was .305, and he led the league in home runs twice (39 in 1977 and 46 in 1978).

The latter year was a great one. He batted .315 while playing in all 163 games, including the playoff loss to the New York Yankees, and led the league in at bats (677), hits (213), triples (15), RBI (139) and home runs.

The Red Sox didn't win the pennant but it wasn't his fault and, for his outstanding year, he was voted Most Valuable Player, was co-winner of the Joe Cronin Award and named American League Player of the Year by The Sporting News.

The man has averaged 29 home runs and 103 RBI since he broke in, had over 200 hits three times (1977-78-79) and been voted on four all star teams.

Over the last five years, he led all major league players with 514 RBI, and in 1979 he led the league for the third straight time in total bases, tying a major league mark held by Ted Williams and Ty Cobb.

In 1977, when Rice was voted winner of the league's designated hitter award, a syndicated columnist referred to him as "half a ballplayer."

Rice was used mainly in the DH role because a gentleman named Carl Yastrzemski was patrolling left field for the Red Sox, and there haven't been many players in the history of the game that would have moved him out of the position.

Rice has always been known for his offensive talents but he is also an excellent outfielder and has more than shown that since Yastrzemski moved along to first base and DH roles.

The man who wrote he was half a player didn't watch Rice play very often and didn't realize he wasn't an every day fielder only because of Yastrzemski.

Rice has worked hard at his fielding and it's paid off. Last year he led the Sox outfield in assists with 10 and had five in the first month of this year.

The past two years he's become a master at playing the left field wall in Fenway Park. "He plays it better than I used to," Yastrzemski commented. Even though that is stretching the point, the message is there.

He has saved countless doubles by being able to barehand balls coming off the wall and either throwing the runner out at second or holding him at first.

"When you look around the league at defensive left fielders, there aren't many who compare with Rice," said manager Ralph Houk. "He does what every outfielder should do. He works hard. He's out there, often, taking caroms off the wall as though it's a game situation and it's more than paid off."

But despite his credentials, Rice for some strange reason, has never gained his due recognition. Perhaps it's because when he first came up he had trouble talking with writers. Not because he didn't want to but because he was a quiet individual who wanted privacy.

With big league maturity, Rice has learned to cope with the media. He's cooperative, although he would prefer the credit to go to the entire team after a victory.

Red Sox fans had Ted Williams, Carl Yastrzemski and now Jim Rice. All three were able to stop the crowd from leaving in a one-sided game when they came to the plate in the ninth. Williams is gone, Yastrzemski is going but the fans still have Rice and, hopefully he'll be here to watch for many more years.

“Where Are They Now?”

by Hugh McGovern

IKE DELOCK

Red Sox Pitcher 1953-63

Wore No. 29 1952-53;

No. 14 1955-63

THEN: Ike Delock was a workhorse pitcher for the Red Sox during most of the 1950's and the early years of the 60's. The right-hander spent 10 plus seasons with Boston, longer than any other pitcher in the American League club's storied history, and appeared in 322 games.

Only Ellis Kinder, a contemporary, and Hall of Fame member Cy Young worked more often, appearing in 365 and 327 games respectively.

The native of Highland Park, Mich., compiled an 84-75 record for his major league career that also included seven games with the Baltimore Orioles. He had 31 saves to rank ninth on the Red Sox all-time list.

Delock's Boston career had two phases.

From 1952 through 1957 the 5-foot-11, 175-pounder was primarily a relief pitcher. He had two spectacular seasons coming out of the bullpen — 1956 with 11 wins and 9 saves and 1957 with 9 wins and 11 saves.

Three times during that period Delock led the Red Sox in appearances with 39 in 1952, 48 in 1956 and 49 in 1957.

Beginning in 1958, and through 1962, his chief role was that of a starter. He was 14-8 with a 3.38 ERA in 1958 and followed that with an 11-6, 2.95 mark the next year.

Red Sox fans enjoyed his pitching in the rocky 1950's when Delock was one of the club's steadiest performers, one who helped them maintain respectability.

NOW: Delock, like many other Red Sox players, has made New England his permanent home. He is in his own business. The 53-year-old Needham resident is a manufacturer's representative, operating out of Waltham.

QUOTES: “I became a member of the Red Sox by chance. My brother Joe and I came home from the service in 1948 two weeks apart. He had been approached by the Red Sox and I had been approached by the Yankees.

“My father, Martin, mentioned me when the Red Sox representative came to talk about Joe. He (Scout Maurice Deloof) asked me what the New York offer was.

“When I told him what it was he offered me $200 more, so I accepted it. Nobody from the Red Sox had ever seen me pitch.”

BURNING UP OLD MYTHS

by Jack O' Leary

The world is set up for right-handed people, if you don't believe it, just ask any lefthander.

There is very little that is designed with the southpaw in mind. Consider even the accepted table setting. The lefthander has to reach across his plate to get his fork. Should the southpaw try to play golf, after paying a little more for lefthanded clubs, he'll find courses laid out with his righthanded counterpart in mind.

Then, there's Fenway Park. Remember how lefthanded Hall of Famer Whitey Ford always came up with an attack of "Fenway Flu" when the New York Yankees came to town? Fenway was the graveyard of lefthanded pitchers.

Over the years, a look at the Red Sox roster would have seemed to bear this out. Sure, there were Mel Parnell, Bill Lee and even Rogelio Moret, but you're talking three consistent lefthanded starters in a 20-year span. There had to be something to that "Green Monster" that lurks 315 feet down the third base line. That was why the Red Sox did without lefthanded starters. It seemed like a valid reason.

Red Sox management is proud to say that that "valid reason" is now a myth cast by the wayside where destroyed lefthanded hurlers are suppose to lie.

Red Sox manager Ralph Houk is proud to say that his staff sports three of the best lefthanded starting prospects in all of baseball and isn't afraid to show them off to the Fenway faithful whenever their turn comes up.

The objects of the Major's pride are

Bruce Hurst,
Bobby Ojeda
and John Tudor.

It hasn't been an easy road to Fenway for this lefthanded troika. They'd heard about the "Green Monster" and the horror stories about the lazy fly balls that wound up in the screen. They also had to contend with the unlikely prospect that a team playing 81 games a year in Fenway would put three lefties in the rotation.

"That fact never bothered me," Hurst said. "I always felt that if you could pitch, you could pitch anywhere. Sure, I knew that there were three lefties in the organization, but I never felt that it was going to be one of us or two at the most. I felt that the jobs would go to the best pitchers period."

Tudor, who had ample opportunity to watch lefthander's knees shake as a youngster growing up in nearby Peabody, never thought about the team having three southpaws in the rotation.

"It never crossed my mind. In the past it's usually worked out that we'd

A TRIBUTE TO TONY C

By George Sullivan

He lived the dream of every young Red Sox fan.

Less than two years out of high school, there he was at age 19—the hometown boy wearing a Red Sox uniform and striding to the plate at Fenway Park on Opening Day 1964. And on the first pitch served him, he arched a home run high over the screen above the left-field wall to launch the Red Sox to victory.

As Fenway rocked in response to the storybook homer, among those cheering were his mother and father, two brothers, a chorus of friends and neighbors, and a galaxy of celebrities including Stan Musial, Gene Tunney, Fredric March, Carol Channing, and Bobby and Ted Kennedy, along with the governor and mayor.

And the dream was just beginning. The cocky teenager would rip 23 more home runs that season (while batting .290) despite missing six weeks with an assortment of injuries including two broken bones. And the next season, despite a hairline wrist fracture that sidelined him 24 games, the six-foot-three, 185-pound righthanded slugger would hit 32 homers to lead the American League—at 20, the youngest ever to top the majors. By age 22 he would slam 100 home runs, the youngest big leaguer ever to do so.

Through it all he became a household name around the country. He made records off the field as well as on, gave concerts and sang on national television. He entertained the troops in Vietnam. A handsome bachelor, gossip columnists linked his name with those of glamour queens.

Tony became a Red Sox regular as a crewcut teenager not long out of St. Mary's High School in Lynn.

Then, in less than four seasons, it all came crashing to a halt. While helping the Red Sox toward an Impossible Dream pennant, he nearly was killed by a pitch at Fenway one August night in 1967—carried off the field in intense pain and rushed to a hospital with a shattered cheekbone, dislocated jaw and a damaged retina which seriously impaired his vision.

"Death was constantly on my mind," he would recall. "I thought I was going to die."

He didn't die, but was told by doctors that he'd never play baseball again. He tried the next season anyway but failed. So the Fall after that he attempted a comeback as a pitcher, and during that time in the Florida Instructional League his sight improved and he made it back instead at his old position in right field.

He celebrated his return to the Red Sox with a dramatic home run in the 10th inning of the 1969 season opener at Baltimore and scored the winning run in the 12th inning. And among those congratulating him was a new roommate, his brother Billy, a fellow outfielder seeing his first game as a big leaguer.

The returning hero would hit 20 homers, drive in 82 runs and play in 141 games that Comeback of the Year season to win the Hutch Award, given annually to the major leaguer who "best exemplifies the fighting spirit and burning desire of the late Freddy Hutchinson," the former Detroit star pitcher and Tigers, Reds and Cardinals manager.

And he would go on to an even better season in 1970, reaching career highs of 36 homers and 116 RBIs.

But more bad luck would dog him. Eye specialists had regarded his comeback as a near miracle, but the miracle wasn't complete. He had recurring eye problems after being traded to California and he retired after only half a season with the Angels. He tried another comeback with the 1975 Red Sox, but after 21 games quit for keeps to become a sportscaster—after 162 home runs in 802 games in a Boston uniform.

And bad luck continued to haunt Tony Conigliaro in January 1982—this time a tragedy—as he fell critically ill while driving to Logan Airport.

The dream now had turned into a nightmare.

Yet Tony C's story will always be a classic—the ultimate Red Sox dream come true.

Conigliaro makes a spectacular tumbling catch in 1967.

The well-remembered Conigliaro swing.

Carl Yastrzemski (left) and Reggie Smith (center) teamed with Conigliaro in the Red Sox outfield that helped bring Boston its Impossible Dream pennant in 1967.

George Sullivan covered Tony C's exploits through the 1960s as a Boston sportswriter, and was on the scene the night Conigliaro was beaned in August 1967. He also was the only writer accompanying Tony to the Florida Instructional League in Fall 1968 when Conig attempted his comeback as a pitcher.

The author of four books including The Picture History of the Boston Red Sox, Sullivan joined the Red Sox in late 1981 as public relations director.

Conigliaro welcomed another slugger named Hank Aaron to Fenway Park in 1975.

Hall of Famer Ted Williams tutored young Tony during spring training.

Tony was nearly killed at Fenway in August 1967, when a pitch shattered Conig's cheekbone, dislocated his jaw and damaged a retina. Told he'd never play baseball again, Conigliaro would make a dramatic comeback in 1969, winning back his right field job after a year and a half on the sidelines.

Tony made records off the field as well as on, gave concerts and sang on national television.

Break tradition.

Drink Ronrico Rum instead.

Face it, you already know what your usual gin and vodka have to offer.

Just try one drink mixed with Ronrico, and you'll realize what it is you've been missing all along.

Ronrico is superbly smooth and light. With a surprisingly distinctive flavor that's bound to win you over.

Isn't it about time you broke tradition with Ronrico Rum?

The Red Sox had a pair of hard-hitting rookie Tonys in 1964—outfielder-first baseman Tony H (for Horton) joining Tony C at the Red Sox' spring training base at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Conigliaro met another headliner named Willie Mays at the 1967 All-Star Game in Anaheim. Both had been baseball prodigies, winning outfield jobs as hard-hitting youngsters—Conig at age 19, Mays at 20.

Conig reached the 100-homer plateau by age 22, the youngest in major league history. In all, during six and a fraction Boston seasons, Tony slammed 162 homers—tied with Carlton Fisk for ninth place on the all-time Red Sox list.

It's Easy to Keep Score

Baseball Shorthand, as used by the news media to render every game more enjoyable to baseball enthusiasts. All players are numbered and all plays recorded by symbols. For symbols and example of system, see below.

CODE NUMBER OF PLAYERS AS FOLLOWS

Pitcher	1	Second Baseman	4	Left Fielder	7
Catcher	2	Third Baseman	5	Center Fielder	8
First Baseman	3	Shortstop	6	Right Fielder	9

SYMBOLS FOR PLAYS

Single	—	Fielder's Choice	FC	Passed Ball	PB
Double	=	Hit by Pitcher	HP	Balk	BK
Triple	≡	Wild Pitch	WP	Struck Out	K
Home Run	≡≡	Stolen Base	SB	Base on Balls	BB
Reached base on error	E	Sacrifice	SAC	Force Out	FO

The lower lefthand corner of the scoring block should be considered as home plate. Progress is counter-clockwise with progress to first base indicated in lower righthand corner, to second in upper righthand corner, to third in upper lefthand corner and to home in lower left. In example to left, batter reached first on an error by the second baseman, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. It is convenient to encircle all runs as shown so that scoring plays may be seen at a glance.

FENWAY PARK GROUND RULES

Foul poles, screen poles and screen on top of left field fence are outside of playing field.
Ball going through scoreboard, either on the bound or fly: 2 Bases.
Fly ball striking left center field wall to right of line behind flag pole: Home Run.
Fly ball striking wall or flag pole and bounding into bleachers: Home Run.
Ball sticking in bullpen screen: 2 Bases.
Batted or thrown ball remaining behind or under canvas or in cylinder: 2 Bases.
Ball striking bevel on the wall between the foul pole in left field and the corner back of the flag pole, and bounding into stands or out of park: 2 Bases.
Ball striking top of scoreboard, also ladder below top of wall and bounding out of the park: 2 Bases.

More than 83,000 ballots were cast last summer as Red Sox fans selected their all-time Red Sox "Dream Team."

Hall of Famer Ted Williams was a landslide selection as the club's greatest player and was also named to the all-time outfield along with current stars Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans.

The Red Sox and the Gillette Co. co-sponsored the election after a panel of sports reporters and broadcasters put together the list of players and managers that appeared on the ballot.

In January the all-time team was honored at the Boston Baseball Writers Dinner with seven of the living members in attendance.

Ted Williams, voted The Greatest All-Time Red Sox player, was on hand for the formal announcement of the "Dream Team" at Fenway Park in January.

BOSTON RED SOX AFFIRMATIVE ACTION POLICY

The Red Sox will not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or ancestry. The Red Sox will take affirmative action to insure that such individuals are treated during their employment without regard to race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or ancestry. Such action shall include but not be limited to the following: hiring, upgrading, demotion, transfer, recruitment, layoff, rates of pay, all other forms of compensation, and selection for training.

Personnel procedures and practices with regard to training, promotion, transfer, compensation, demotion, layoff or termination are to be administered with due regard to job performance, experience and qualifications, but without discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin or ancestry.

It is the policy of the Red Sox that in the process of recruitment for and appointment to the work force qualified minority group candidates will be encouraged to apply.

The Red Sox will not discriminate against any rehabilitated employee or applicant because of previous psychiatric treatment and/or confinement in a mental health facility. Employment will not be denied for such medical history unless there is a bona fide occupational qualification which precludes employment. Additionally, the Red Sox will not discriminate against any rehabilitated employee or applicant for employment because of physical handicap unless there is a bona fide occupational qualification which precludes employment.

The Red Sox will not discriminate against qualified minority-owned vendors and suppliers, including suppliers of both professional and non-professional services. The Red Sox will request that its vendors and suppliers submit assurance of their commitments to the goal of equal employment opportunity. The Red Sox will not discriminate in the leasing of commercial space.

Any Red Sox employee judged to be in willful and deliberate non-compliance with this equal employment opportunity policy will be subject to disciplinary action.

IT WAS A GREAT GAME, BUT IT'S GOOD TO BE HOME.

YOU DON'T RUN MILLION-DOLLAR EXPERIMENTS WITH A CHEAPLY MADE OIL FILTER.

Motorcraft

EXCEEDS THE NEED

What existing oil filter could be selected for automobiles of such valuable technological stature?

Incredibly, many million-dollar experiments are guarded by a Motorcraft FL-1A filter — right off the shelf. Engineered to outperform all leading filters, the FL-1A's unique six-slot base accommodates oil flow rushes to nine gallons per minute. And an exclusive filter design incorporating a pleated filter element is blended with tough man-made fiber. A superior material not found in cheaply made oil filters. The result? Motorcraft FL-1A lasts longer and traps more abrasives than any other leading filter. So which would appear the better choice to protect your car? The Motorcraft filter proven in million-dollar experiments? Or one proven to trap less dirt for a shorter period of time? Motorcraft. Quality parts for all makes of cars. Get it together — buckle up.

It's a new network and a new team on the Red Sox radio network this year. The Campbell Sports Network is bringing the action during the entire 1983 season to fans all over New England. WPLM in Plymouth is the flagship station and WHDH in Boston is the major metropolitan outlet.

Once again genial Ken Coleman is behind the mike, but he has a new partner in Joe Castiglione. Coleman, also the executive director of the Jimmy Fund, has done Red Sox games on radio and TV for 13 years, and has over 30 years of broadcasting experience.

Ken spent 10 years with the Cleveland Indians and 14 with the Cleveland Browns of the NFL. He also did Cincinnati Reds TV, Harvard and Ohio State football and seven NFL championship games. Ken won 12 AFTRA awards.

Castiglione, a native of Hamden, Conn., did play-by-play of Cleveland Indians games on cable TV last year after a similar position for the Milwaukee Brewers in 1981. He got his major league start by doing the Indians games on commercial TV in 1979 before he became the club's backup announcer on the radio network in 1980.

The Colgate U. graduate did college broadcasting at Colgate, Syracuse U. and Youngstown State U. Last year his cable TV partner in Cleveland was Hall of Fame pitcher Bob Feller.

RED SOX TV

Ned Martin

Bob Montgomery

The popular combination of veteran Ned Martin and former catcher Bob Montgomery is together for the second year on the TV 38 (WSBK) Red Sox Network.

They will be announcing telecasts of approximately 100 games during TV 38's ninth straight year with the Red Sox. Five other stations around New England comprise the network.

Martin has been a New England fixture with Red Sox fans for 23 years, on both radio and TV. The Duke University grad and Marine Corps veteran has been with TV 38 since 1979. After starting his career working minor league games, Ned joined Curt Gowdy on the Red Sox network in 1961.

He has broadcast the American League Championship Series games on the CBS Radio network in 1976-78 and in the fall of 1979 went to Japan to telecast games between the Major League All Stars and Japanese teams.

Monty hit the only home run in last year's Old Timers Game at Fenway Park. He was also a part of the telecast team for the first time. In 1962 Bob signed with the Red Sox and was a catcher in the organization until he retired in the spring of 1980.

He came to the majors for good in 1971 and was a valuable reserve. The Boston Baseball Writers voted him their "Unsung Hero Award" in 1973 and he was on the 1975 pennant-winning club. Monty did a radio sports talk show in 1980-81 as well as some announcing and color commentary of Red Sox games on radio.

have one or two of us in or out of the rotation. This is the first year where we've had all three of us in the rotation at once. If you concentrate on keeping the ball inside to most righthanded hitters, a lefthander can pitch effectively in this park."

Hurst and Tudor had fairly normal major league development. They learned by their mistakes, gaining in confidence and ability as time went by. Ojeda, in contrast, burst on the scene after the player's strike in 1981 with a 6-2 slate and was in Houk's estimation, "one of the best pitchers in the league."

In 1982, Ojeda was hampered by various physical ailments which impeded his progress, but didn't dampen his desire. In fact, Bobby feels that he may have been a bit overzealous.

"I'm forced to pay for my mistakes of last year. I was 24 years old and stupid. I'd tell everyone that I was okay when I wasn't. As a result, I lost confidence in myself. When I was 100% healthy in '81, I won 18 games between here and Pawtucket. At 60% of my health in '82, I won only four games. I've got to erase 1982 from my mind. I can't look behind."

With that in mind, Ojeda spent a good part of the winter playing ball in Puerto Rico. Not only did his health return, but the confidence came back.

"I'm 100% now. All I need is the chance to prove myself. I know that I'm 100% and when I feel that way, I can get people out. I didn't handle my situation well last year and I'm ready to prove myself again."

Houk, the man who pulls the strings, feels that Ojeda just might return to his 1981 form.

"I was encouraged by what I saw of Bobby this spring. He's regained his fastball and I hope he pitches like he did in '81. The potential is there. I've seen him do it!"

Speaking of potential, when Hurst came to the Red Sox, he was supposed to be the next big pitching star. It didn't really happen the way everyone said it would. In fact, at times there was doubt that it would ever happen.

Gaining a little less than two years service over the past three seasons, Hurst amassed a 7-9 record with an unphenomenal 6.17 ERA.

To add to the mystery as to why this enormous talent was having problems getting hitters out were the bone chips in Bruce's left elbow. Now the chips are gone as is the cloud of mystery. A change in pitching motion and surgery have cleared the doubts.

"I've made my motion more compact. I was pitching from different places everytime I released the ball. Now, I'm keeping the ball down and I'm more consistent. I'm doing the things I did when I first started in pro ball."

Red Sox Cooperate with Fenway Neighbors

The Red Sox reaffirm their commitment to cooperating with their neighbors in working out various community concerns. We encourage all of our fans to cooperate also by not littering, vandalizing or in any way disregarding the rights of the neighbors who surround Fenway Park. The Red Sox also urge all fans to use the parking lots in the vicinity of the stadium and to use private buses or public transportation whenever possible.

Please refer to the transportation map on Page 50 for further information on easy access to the ball park. Thank you.

1983 FENWAY PARK RENOVATIONS...

Roof Top Suites and Sky View Boxes with 1500 seats backed up by new Tower lighting.

Fenway Park, one of the Grande Dames of Baseball, has undergone a face lift. She has emerged more charming than ever, with far more to offer her customers.

This recent rejuvenation cost in the vicinity of $6 million, according to the Red Sox treasurer Jim Olivier, the chief co-ordinator of the renovations.

Aided by a relatively mild winter, workers were able to complete the private boxes on the roof of the third-base side of the park in time for opening day. Shortly thereafter, the skyview seats atop these boxes and on the first base side were completed and awnings installed for protection from the elements.

The lofty boxes and seats are perhaps the most visible of the changes at

“Where Are They Now?”

Delock spent four years in Boston's minor league organization before joining the Red Sox in 1952 for his long career.

“The high point was winning 10 games in a row to start the 1958 season. I had won three games at the end of the 1957 season so I had a 13-game streak going.

“It ended when I lost in Chicago (to the White Sox), 5-2. It was a game I should have won. I took it for granted that I would win. I didn't concentrate the way I should have.

“When the game was over Mike Higgins (the Red Sox manager) said, ‘You made a big mistake.’ I replied, ‘I know it.’”

Only one pitcher in Boston history has a longer winning streak than Delock's at the start of a season, Rogelio Moret, who won 11 in 1973. Dave (Boo) Ferris also won 10 in a row at the start of 1946. The club and American League record for consecutive victories during a season is 16 by Smokey Joe Wood in 1912.

His most memorable game?

“When you pitch in 322 games, it's really hard to say, I couldn't pick out one game.

“If I had pitched a no-hitter, it would be different, I would have remembered that. The closest I came was a three-hitter in a 3-1 win in Chicago although another time I had a no-hitter going for seven and a third innings.”

Delock may not be able to single out any one game as his most memorable, but the right-hander didn't have any difficulty recalling the hitter who was most troublesome.

“Nelson Fox gave me the most trouble. He was a contact hitter, a singles hitter. He singled me to death. I struck him out only once during his career.

“The Yankees were tough hitters in those days. Hank Bauer (one of New York's stars at that time) gave me trouble. Another who was a very difficult out was Mickey Vernon (then with the Washington Senators).”

Delock never faced Joe DiMaggio — “He retired when he heard I was coming up,” and Ted Williams — “Fortunately he was on my side.”

The Red Sox are still important to Delock, but not to the same extent as in his playing days.

“I go occasionally to Fenway Park and I watch them on television. But I can't make them my whole life. I like to play golf. I'm an everyday hacker, who doesn't get too serious about it. I try to enjoy myself.”

was to go blind, yet continued to write excellent books on the techniques of playing baseball.

Naturally if you had red or blonde hair you became Red or Blondie. Hall of Famer, Mordecai Brown lost some fingers as a child and was best known as "Three Fingers."

The most cruel names of all were given to two deaf-mutes. William Hoy and Luther Taylor were "Dummy." Hoy standing but 5'4" lasted 14 years as an outfielder hitting over .300 on three occasions. His courage eventually won the respect of both players and fans, who, realizing he couldn't hear, would wave handkerchiefs at him in appreciation of a good play. Luther Taylor pitched for nine years, enjoying seasons of 21-17-17 wins.

George Herman Ruth received his immortal cognomen when he reported to his first minor league team. It was the habit of the veteran players to haze the young rookies; however a coach warned the vets that this kid was owner Jack Dunn's "Babe", his favorite player, so they better lay off him.

There have been many other Babes — Dahlgren the man who replaced Gehrig on first for the Yankees; Herman, a great Dodger slugger; Young, Phelps and even Adams, a pitcher.

Geography often determined your name. It was automatic if you were from below the Mason-Dixon Line or the Lone Star State to be known as Dixie or Tex. Bama Rowell was from Alabama; Arky Vaughan, Arkansas; Jersey Joe Stripp, New Jersey and Casey Stengel from Kansas City, K.C. being the abbreviation.

All Rubes and Cys were from rural areas. Rube was the call of the circus folk when they felt some country bumpkin was about to make trouble and they needed help. When left-hander Rube Waddell exhibited his eccentricities this meant that all lefties should be called Rube and were probably a little wacky.

Cy Young's name was born the day he tried out for a minor league team and threw a wild pitch that demolished a fence. A writer looking at the fence said it looked as if a cyclone had hit it and so Denton Young became Cy.

Bobby Brown and George Medich; while graduate DDS' have been Guy White, Edward Farrell and James Prothro, who managed the Phillies and is the father of the well known football coach.

Names from the animal world have been many and descriptive. Flea Clifton, Rabbitt Maranville and Rabbitt Warslter were small of stature; while Bear Garcia and Hutchinson, Moose Solters, Dropo, and Skowron, and Ox Ekhardt (who also played major league football) were as big as the animal they were named after. Ducky Medwick walked like a duck; while Birdie Tebbetts chirped like a bird. Crab Burkett and Evers (Hall of Famer Johnny) were so named for their less than Dale Carnegie types of personalities.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter was not the first to be named after the fish. A generation ago an outfielder George Metkovich went fishing, stepped on a catfish, and became Catfish Metkovich.

The most bizarre nicknames of all were the feminine names given to ball players. Skipper, in his article lists 53, noting none in the last 30 years.

Veteran writer, the late Fred Lieb stated that slugging outfielder "Tilly" Walker was thought to walk like a girl; while "Ginger" Beaumont got his name from the color of his hair.

Candy Cummings, the inventor of the curve ball, was named for the confectionary, for it was thought that candy was the most elegant food available and he was the best pitcher around.

Skipper also pointed out the 6'2", lifetime .300 hitter "Baby Doll" Jacobson got his name while a minor leaguer. Following a homer, the band broke into the then popular song "Oh You Beautiful Doll." The next day Jacobson's photo appeared in the local paper with the caption "Baby Doll," a name he carried to his grave.

Family names often dictated your nickname. All Rhodes were Dusty, Collins' Rip and Campbells', Soup.

While sports are better off without names that were meant to ridicule and slander rather than to praise, it is a shame there are no more Babes, Yankee Clippers, Dizzy, Dazzy, KiKi, or Stan the Man.

This article was supplied to the clubs of the American League by the Society for American Baseball Research (SABR).

"STEAMER" STANLEY

Another favorite has been Doc. Roger Cramer, a great American League center fielder, liked to make rounds with the family medico in his horse and buggy thus becoming Doc. Doc Crandall was the first really skilled relief pitcher and became known as the "Doctor of Lost Games." Graduate M.D.'s have been John Lavan, Mike Powers,

There's even a new Celica model for 1983 — the Celica GT-S (pictured below). It introduces racing-type independent rear suspension to the Celica line. Celica GT-S also comes standard with the biggest tires in the class — extra-wide 225/60 HR 14 steel-belted radials. And they're mounted on gleaming 14" x 7" aluminum alloy wheels. So Celica turns corners with a precision the rest of the

There have been other contributing factors to the emergence of Hurst as a capable major league starter. The first is experience. The second is Houk. You don't have to keep them in that order.

"I'm comfortable with being a major leaguer now. Looking back, I think I may have come up too quick and wasn't ready for everything. But, hindsight is 20-20. If I stay within myself, I can win here.

"As for Ralph (Houk), he's great with young pitchers especially. He hates mistakes, but he's tolerant and teaches us. He takes the pressure off and is real patient."

Over the last two months of the '82 season, Tudor changed from the diamond in the rough to a polished starter going 7-2 en route to a 13-10 season.

With credentials like that, Tudor emerged from the ranks of thrower to a legitimate major leaguer. At the same time he gained needed confidence.

"One of the problems a young pitcher faces is that he has to have someone with confidence in him in order to gain confidence in himself. If you don't have the chance to pitch your way out of tight spots, how are you going to gain the confidence necessary to develop as a pitcher? It's a vicious cycle."

That cycle started to dissolve the day Houk took over the reins of the Sox.

"There's a big difference between the two managers (Houk and Don Zimmer) that I've played for here. Zim wasn't real friendly with the younger pitchers. He wasn't a confidence builder. I've always said that I would have liked to play for Zim without any pressure on him to see for myself what he's really like.

"Ralph is a real motivator. He builds confidence. If you have a bad game, he still is able to say something good to you. That's been a big help."

There's been another development which has helped Tudor establish himself.

"I think that developing a curveball has made a big difference. Having that second pitch that I can rely on is a big help. There have been nights when I haven't had my best fastball, but have gotten away with it by using my curve."

Three lefthanded starters in the Red Sox rotation and you said it couldn't happen.

"It's happened and they all have major league ability." Houk states.

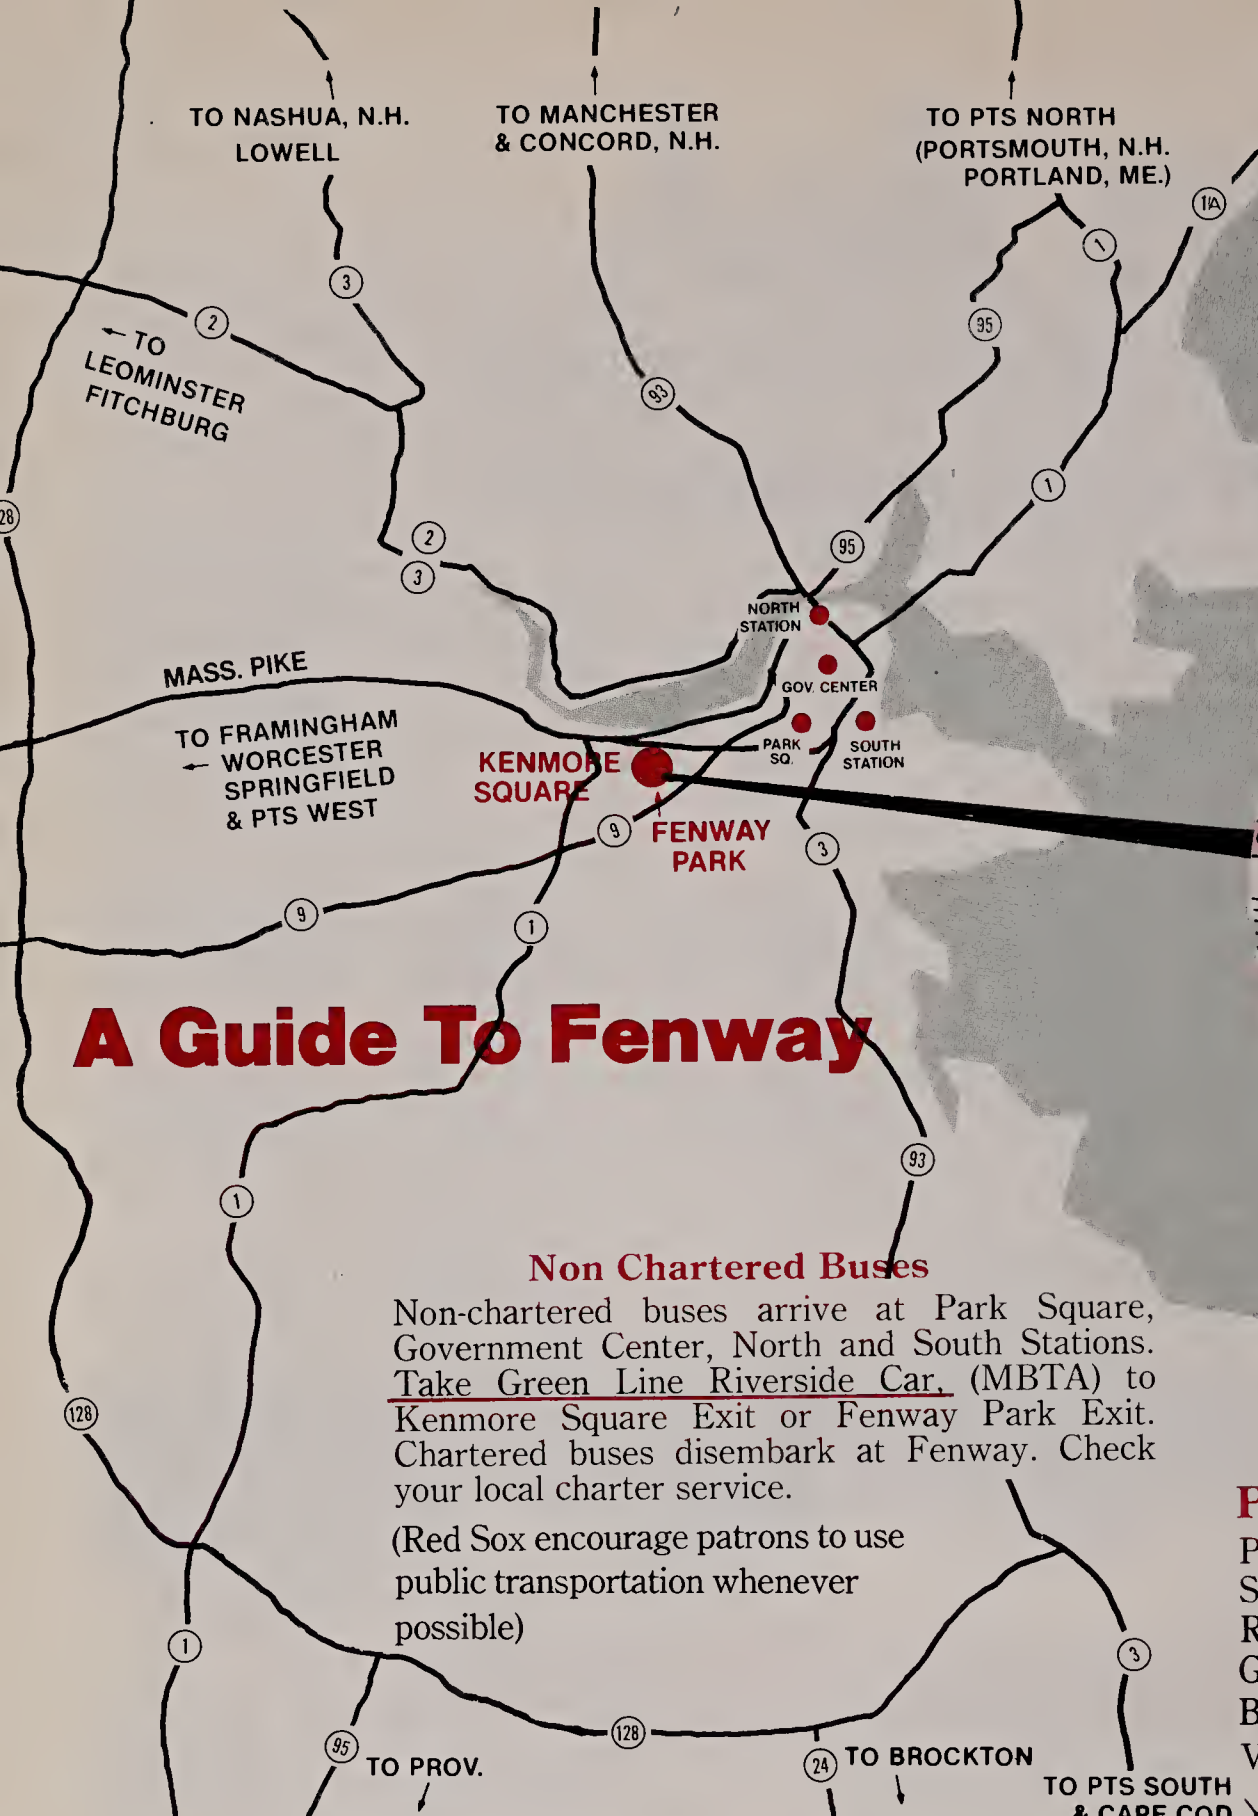

While it's improbable that Fenway Park will ever be known as "Friendly Fenway" for every lefthanded pitcher, it's also doubtful that the renowned graveyard for southpaws will claim the trio of Tudor, Ojeda and Hurst.

Lynn Margileth

The Red Sox are the favorite sports team of Lynn Margileth, whose unique artistry graces this magazine's cover.

Entitled "Red Sox", it is one in a series of aerial night views that the 37-year-old artist has painted of Boston and Cambridge.

"It never would have occurred to me to paint Fenway Park until the Red Sox captured my heart", says Margileth, who grew up in Maryland and moved to Boston's South End a dozen years ago and became a Sox enthusiast because of her husband's family, particularly mother-in-law Julia who "never missed a Red Sox game".

"I wasn't so interested in sports before I came to Boston, but I was soon converted into a Red Sox fan because Summertime in Boston was the Red Sox to the family.

"While gathering material for my aerial paintings I rented small planes and flew over the city at twilight, and noticed how the ballpark stood out like a green glowing jewel in the darkness.

"So during the last night game of 1981 I went to the top of the Pru to photograph Fenway Park just after dark. I watched the game through my telephoto lens and could see the players and the crowd cheering.

Lynn Margileth

"As an artist I find Fenway Park to be visually beautiful", continues Margileth, a graduate of Penn State who taught Art in the Winchester Public Schools 1976-82. The real grass and the size of the ballpark reflect the human character of Boston, the unusual shape of the park interests me, how it was adapted to fit into the city that surrounds it. I would hate to see that change.

"It was from these photographs that I painted Fenway, oil on canvas measuring 6 by 7 feet.

"Painting it was like a goodbye to Boston because I moved to New York City soon afterwards. I'll always be a Red Sox fan, though, and look forward to seeing the Red Sox this season — both at Yankee Stadium and back at Fenway", says Margileth, whose 8-year-old son Matthew also is a Red Sox enthusiast.

"I feel this is a very special season for the Red Sox. The 1975 World Series was the most dramatic sports experience I have had, and I am hoping for a repeat of that thrill this year. And my favorite player is Yaz, and this final season is a special time for him and for all of us who follow his great playing.

"So for all of these reasons it is a thrill for me to have my Fenway Park painting on the cover of the Red Sox Magazine". The original of Margileth's Fenway painting is now owned by McAlpin House, Herald Square, New York City.

Margileth's paintings are currently exhibited at the Cambridge Arts Council, at the corner of Broadway and Inman Street in Cambridge and at the Loeb Drama Center on Brattle Street in Cambridge until June 20. Her work can also be viewed at the Stavridis Gallery, 73 Newbury Street, Boston, and the Elizabeth Cutler Gallery in New York City.
